CADS Level 1 evaluation

Course Description

CADS (Canadian Adaptive Snowsports) Certification Courses are instructor training courses set by the CADS Technical Committee. Each division's course conductors follow specific criteria to train and certify instructors to teach skiing and snowboarding to persons with a disability.

Any strong intermediate skier or snowboarder, with or without a disability, 15 years or older, who is interested in teaching persons with disabilities about the "joys" of skiing or snowboarding may take this course.

The CADS Ski Level 1 complete certification is for candidates interested in learning how to teach students across all four disciplines – Autism & Cognitive Impairment, Visual Impairment, Sitski and 3-4 Track. Candidates will learn tools and skills to safely and competently teach skiing to students of all abilities at a beginner level. The course will take place online and on snow, and follows the evaluation criteria set out in the CADS Level 1 Study Guide. For more information go to: www.cads.ski

A full Level 1 Certification is required should you wish to pursue Level 2, 3 or 4 certification
